

NOVI SAD LINGUISTIC COLLOQUIUM 5
(NS LingColl 5)

University of Novi Sad,
Faculty of Philosophy, Department of English

27 December 2015

Room 114

PROGRAM

- 9:30 – 9:50 Valentina Đorić (University of Novi Sad):
Wh-extraction of arguments and adjuncts in factive and non-factive constructions in Serbo-Croatian
- 9:50 – 10:10 Neda Todorović (University of Connecticut):
What can future tell us about the structure of the middle field?
- 10:10 – 10:30 Anja Šarić (University of Frankfurt am Main):
Possessives, adnominal genitives and DP
- 10:30 – 10:50 Sanja Raković (University of Novi Sad):
A note on rebellious evo/eto/eno constructions in Serbian
- 10:50 – 11:10 Aleksandra Mirković (University of Novi Sad):
The curious case of Serbian za- sentences
- 11:10 – 11:30 Coffee break
- 11:30 – 11:50 Predrag Kovačević (University of Novi Sad):
Why and how do we look at variation from a generative perspective?
- 11:50 – 12:10 Livia Sági (University of Novi Sad):
The variation of the definite article with personal names
- 12:10 – 12:30 Aniko Kovač (Saarland University):
D-elements in Serbian as a means of maintaining Uniform Information Density
- 12:30 - 12:50 Maja Čurčić (University of Amsterdam):
How exceptions affect linguistic pattern learning in adults: An individual differences approach
- 12:50 – 13:10 Lela Ivaz (Basque Center on Cognition, Brain and Language):
How much do I like myself in a foreign language context? Emotions and foreign language processing
- 13:10 – 13:30 Coffee break

- 13:30 – 13:50 Bojana Ristić (Basque Center on Cognition, Brain and Language):
Predicting syntax
- 13:50 – 14:10 Mirjana Sekicki (Saarland University):
Predictability effects: An empirical comparison of paradigms used for sentence comprehension
- 14:10 – 14:30 Aleksandra Krstić (University of Novi Sad):
The role of a linguist in medicine: brain damage and language disorders
- 14:30 – 14:50 Sanja Radman & Isidora Gatarić (University of Novi Sad):
Are there any differences in the processing of different Serbian deverbals nominals?